Rationale: volunteer school workers are not liable in any civil proceedings for anything done, or not done, in good faith in providing a community service.

Aim: to explain the legal rights of volunteers in schools

Definition of volunteer
A volunteer school worker is a person who voluntarily engages in schoolwork or approved community work, without payment or reward. Schoolwork means:

- Carrying out the functions of a school council
- Any activity carried out for the welfare of a school, by the school council, any parents’ club or association or any other body organised to promote the welfare of the school
- Any activity carried out for the welfare of the school at the request of the principal or school council
- Providing any assistance in the work of any school or kindergarten
- Attending meetings in relation to government schools convened by any organisation that receives government financial support.

This is a broad definition, and means that volunteers who participate in school community activities, such fundraising and assisting with excursions, are well protected from legal action by others.

Important: “Voluntary” work carried out to meet Centrelink requirements

People who perform unpaid work in schools under the “Work for the Dole” programme and “Community Work” programmes administered by Centrelink have insurance cover provided by the Federal Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations, and may perform work in schools.

Other Centrelink benefit recipients involved in “voluntary” work in order to fulfil their recipient obligations are not covered by an Australian Government insurance scheme and are not insured to work in Victorian government schools. Schools may not accept this group of Centrelink benefit recipients to work as volunteers in Victorian government schools.

Implementation:
Compensation
Personal injury
Volunteer workers are covered by the Department’s Workers Compensation policy if they suffer personal injury in the course of engaging in schoolwork or when travelling to or from the place where the schoolwork is to occur.

Property damage
If a volunteer school worker suffers damage to his or her property in the course of carrying out schoolwork, the Minister may authorise such compensation as the Minister thinks reasonable in the circumstances. Claims of this nature are to be directed to:
